Members of the Barre Citizens' band are asked to meet at headquarters this evening at 7 o'clock. An excellent program has been prepared for the open air concert at 8 o'clock and a number of selections are to be played on the departure of the New England cemetery superintendents.

All officers and members of Hiawatha lodge, No. 20, I. O. O. F., will meet in Odd Fellows hall Thursday at 1:30 p. m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother, Charles Johnston. Bring badges and gloves. Per order N. G.

A number of Barre people have been interested in a proposal to establish in this city a plant for the manufacture of pressed cement brick. So much interest has been manifested in the project that several prominent citizens have been instrumental in securing the services of a demonstrator, W. E. Harrington of Boston, who will hold a demonstration in the rear of the Whitcomb Bros. plant at North Barre either this afternoon or sometime to-morrow. It is claimed for the brick which the demonstrator will exhibit that it can be manufactured, if necessary, on the very building job where it is to be used. A machine which will be installed here if the project is carried out is capable of manufacturing 10 bricks per minute and where 5,000 ordinary bricks are used, 4,000 of the cement bricks will suffice. It is claimed that the new method of making bricks will eventually revolutionize building methods.

K. Thurston; recitation, Earle Winter; song, Fred S. Kent; spelling contest by the grange. The next meeting will be held July 7.

Minus ears but possessed of every faculty for hearing what is going on, a horse pulled into North Main street this morning and excited the imagination of a stream of passers-by, most of whom were curious enough to pause and ask as to how the beast had been robbed of his auditory appendages. The animal with another beast of burden, which may be called a horse without any severe stretch of the imagination, was attached to a load of hay just in from Berlin. When the driver presently appeared, there was a sizeable knot of spectators ready with the "once over" as to how the horse managed to worry along without any ears. The owner explained that his horse had been born without ears, although he was able to hear perfectly, and seemed to know about as much as some of the other animals on the farm.

Sturtevant, the Maine-New Brunswick leaguer; J. White, formerly of the New York State league, are among the stars with Brattleboro.

This forenoon Depot square shivered tremendously in the second wave of excitement that has enveloped it in twenty-four hours. Workmen excavating for the sub-cellar of the new "Jack's" lunch room uncovered what appears to be an ancient reliquary for emergency medicines. The first tap of a laborer's pick against a small chest some six feet under the level was followed quickly by the unearthing of a sizeable box containing several bottles of beer and a flagon of prime gin. The news spread quickly around the square and within three minutes a large crowd of experts in the testing line had swarmed along the banks of the canal. Years of repose in the darkness of the dank earth had robbed the lighter beverage of its old attraction, but trustworthy witnesses testified to the quality of the gin. Despite its long ageing, the gin had lost none of its old-time subtle sting, it was said. Old citizens say the repository must date back beyond the memory of any of the late tenants of the lunch house.
